

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Feb. 21
THIS DAY may bring the culmination of high ideals or exalted ambitions, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. While the accent seems on social, artistic or romantic aspirations, there also may be creative efforts in intellectual or inventive lines. Tendencies to recklessness, quarrels or excesses should be suppressed. There are very strong indications for romance and marriage.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of fulfilled hopes and wishes. The higher forms of mental and creative expression are under inspirational stimulus, possibly leading to some novel accomplishment. Impetuous conduct should be avoided. Strong prospects point to courtship, romance, matrimony.

A child born on this day may have many ambitions and aspirations with native talents and versatility to substantiate them—creative, original in ventur.

The icing recipe called for coffee and powdered sugar. She poured in the required amount of ground coffee and when nothing happened she went to a neighbor more versed in cookery and told her what had happened. The lady gently explained that the recipe meant cooked coffee. The cake was the delight and boast of the east side family because the second batch of icing turned out to be super-delicious.

Chair Yields $10

Charley Morbell and Dominic DiMaggio, who earn their living repairing furniture here, are used to finding all sorts of odds and ends in their work. But when they discovered a neatly folded $10 bill in a chair recently, they couldn't help being a little surprised. They charged the customers for the work and then marked $10 paid on the account, much to the customer's amazement. The customer finally remembered hiding the money more than a year ago.

Almost invariably there is a penny or two in change they tear down for repairing. Quite often there are larger coins, bobble pins, scissors and other articles. Most unusual in their experience was a diaper.

Disappointed

"Did you like the picture?" we overheard a business man ask an acquaintance who had just seen "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

"Yes, it's a fine movie," was the reply. "But you know I was a little disappointed in it at that I thought it was going to be about football."

And the fellow wasn't joking, either.

PEARL ST. P-T. A. HOLDS FOUNDERS' DAY PROGRAM

Progress of the P-T. A. was traced by Mrs. E. G. Leffler in observance of founders' day when the Pearl Street P-T. A. met Friday afternoon. The group was led in singing by Mrs. Harold Osborn, and devotions were conducted by Mrs. H. R. Ferguson. Mrs. Leffler and Mrs. John Jacoby were named delegates to the district conference in Mansfield March 12. It was urged that parents assist in providing clothing for the underprivileged children.

A program opened with a vocal solo by Mrs. Osborn, and Mark McKilrick gave a talk on "Mental Health," in which he discussed the mental attitudes or tendencies of hate, fear, cruelty, suspicion, inferiority and the tendency to exaggerate. These attitudes, he said, are the forerunners of mal-adjustment in later life. Refreshments were served with the fourth grade teachers, Miss Wilma Click and Miss Maria Sautter presiding at the table. March 15, Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Central Christian church, will speak on "Family Relations."

Another Sign of Spring

THOUGH records on the matter aren't kept, memory confirms the impression that one infallible sign of spring has come on schedule this year. Sen. Barkley, majority leader in the senate, has promised there won't be any new taxes.

This promise is made every year about the middle of February. It is supposed to tide over the country to the first crocus or something. The theory seems to be that whatever new taxes are necessary shouldn't come till the nation's blood has been thinned by summer heat.

Sen. Barkley explains that congress is wading the economy ax so energetically the $480,000,000 of new taxes recommended by the President won't be necessary (he hopes). But the senator didn't include the parentheses.

As leader of the majority, charged with responsibility for putting through a legislative program calling for $480,000,000 worth of new taxes, "Dear Alben" is in a tough spot. He's riding two horses going in opposite directions.

Run To Ground

AN ENGAGING comment on the heavy snowfall in New York has appeared in the Herald-Tribune of that city, which boasts that natives who travel underground can laugh at such impediments. "Travel underground has its advantages here as well as on the western front," sagely concludes the Herald-Tribune's defiant tribute to man's ingenuity.

Here is something with the proportions of a big idea. Some thousands of years ago, historians tell us, men tended to live with other animals in natural caves and bit by bit mastered the then difficult business of living in the open, using artificial shelters. This set them apart from the rest of the animal kingdom.

Encouraged, they began to do big things with life above ground. Came the day when their cave-dwelling ancestors, who otherwise might have been decently forgotten, were left so far behind that their up and coming progeny made sport of them in museums and funny papers. Perhaps that was the beginning of the end; it must have been a long time before they could have been decently forgotten. Because soon afterward the airplane began to fly overhead and the long range guns began to roar.

That's not the reason New Yorkers and natives of a few other cities ran to ground. Their motive was to get from one place to another safely, like moles. But come the day when it might be necessary for them to get underground to save their necks, like Europeans, they would have a tremendous initial advantage in the struggle for survival, having become accustomed to living like cave men because their civilization is so advanced.

Papa Knows Best

TO GRASP the significance of interstate commerce commission's order reducing the basic passenger fare rate on eastern railroads from 2 1/2 to 2 cents a mile, effective March 24, it is necessary to go back to November, 1937.

Punished by the depression, railroads petitioned for authority to increase passenger rates from 2 to 2 1/2 cents. On March 8, 1938, the commission denied the petition, but reconsidered its decision in July and granted the request for a trial period of 18 months.

In the meantime the railroads had tried to attack their financial problem by a general wage reduction. This was turned down by the railroad brotherhoods and when the process of mediation prescribed by law had been exhausted the railroads found themselves where they started.

On Jan. 22, this year, they petitioned for a nine-month extension of the 2 1/2 cent rate. It is the commission's refusal of extension that reduces the basic rate again to 2 cents a mile. "Because a greater number of passengers will undoubtedly be carried and a greater number of passenger miles of service rendered under the lower fare than would be true under the higher fare, and because of the probably better net revenue results to the railroads," explains the commission, "we find that the interests of both the public and the railroads will be better served if the petition before us is denied."

This is perfectly clear to everybody but the railroads, whose argument that they should, after all, know something about running their own business is answered with the simple declaration, "Papa knows best." But does he? Must it be assumed the railroads asked for a 2 1/2 cent rate because they knew it was going to be bad for them?

News Behind the News.

Here Are Washington Views on What Might Be Expected If Roosevelt Is Elected Again.

By PAUL MALLON

"What Kind of President Would He Make?" Following is the first of a series of articles dealing with the various aspects of the Roosevelt administration, as seen by a group of prominent Washington writers and editors, in an effort to contribute to the public's knowledge of the man who will be elected president in November.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A world New Deal is the basic projected thought for the third term.

It would be a new international deal founded on a proposal for economic and physical disarmament and underwritten with American leadership and resources.

As President Roosevelt's most competent associates described his hopes: He would not make any political contribution. He would not go into a league of nations, a federation of nations or commit the United States to any political, military or police action. He would leave entirely to the belligerent discussions of political and territorial settlements. But he does not foresee financial and economic devastation as the certain outcome of hostilities. He does not believe this devastation will require the United States to submit a new international deal in its own commercial interests. Full disarmament will have to come to restore governments financially.

Tariff barriers must be broken down. The wherewithal to purchase must be furnished depleted national treasuries. Currencies must be re-established even possibly at the expense of loans from our gold stocks. Unless we take the leadership in these things, we will suffer loss of our foreign markets and be frozen out economically from the new world order which must come.

This is the line of reasoning being carried to Europe by Messrs. Welles and Taylor.

Against these prospects is the clear implication in existing domestic political conditions that the third term might be the bitterest era since the Jackson period.

A few days ago Senator Smith of South Carolina said he would walk out of any convention that approved a third term. He only said publicly what some of the leading officials of this government have been murmuring in private for months.

In short, a third Roosevelt term seems likely to complete the revolution in the party. The Rooseveltians would be left in unchallenged control. The Democrats would be out. Effects of this are incalculable.

Only way this political revolution could be avoided is by a peace treaty between the crowding leftists and the indignant centrists. If Mr. Roosevelt can negotiate their acquiescence with promises of what he will and will not do in the way of domestic social experiments or political appointments, he could yet work himself loose from the dire prospects.

Keys to what he would try in the way of social reform will be found on the ring of his delayed plans. I believe he has in mind including states to amend their unemployment compensation laws, which now tax manufacturers in such a way as to make the hiring of new shifts more expensive than overtime work.

Expansion of government public utility activity is an obvious likelihood. The polished suggestion of New Deal writers that Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen would retire next January was just more New Deal folklore. Even now they are actively pushing the federal defense power committee and promoting screen-grid legislation before adjournment, although last Friday they could not get a quorum of the committee together for the purpose.

Other Plans
Other lines of prospective action:

A new farm program evolved from the experience, the nature of which is not yet evident. Tax increases based on the treasury plan to increase surtaxes, which was not presented this session in view of the imminence of the election.

Strong new bank legislation designed to force lending and re-opening of investment capital markets.

A change of NLRB face, probably under Senator Wagner's direction, to restrict the board to judicial activities. (If not done before election.)

Continuing of spending and the unbalanced budget as long as unemployment exists.

Naval expenditures to continue toward a two-ocean fleet until peace comes.

These are not all of the things that might be attempted, only those which are currently being held in store by the best New Deal minds.

On The Record

U. S. Youths' Distrust of Words Seen
As Result of Lack of Careful Thinking.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IN A RECENT issue of "The New Republic," John Chamberlain, reporting on a round of the country in which he talked with youth groups about the war, made this statement:

"The boys and girls tend to distrust all slogans, all tags—even all words. They will not easily fall for any crusade unless his promises can be translated into jobs, security, prospects for the future, a chance to study and learn and an extension of traditional American civil liberties."

This statement is worth some careful analysis. It is one of the most disturbing statements I have read in months. It may throw some light upon the preposterous behavior of the youth who attended the American Youth Congress. For consider what it really means.

"American boys and girls... tend to distrust all words."

Quickly and sharply this must be said: If words have ceased to be trustworthy, if they have ceased to convey precise meanings, if the distrust of slogans and propaganda has become so widespread that all words are discarded to abandon thought, men and women can think only in terms of two sets of symbols: Words and numbers. The beginning of all thought is language. The world we live in is a thought-made world. The political and social forms of the community, the very material cities and towns and buildings in which we live, every form that has been brought out of chaos—all civilization, indeed—have been produced by the capacity of men to order their own thinking and communicate it to others, through words or numbers.

Analysis of Statements Urged
If the distrust of words means that young people are pushing for more exact definitions, that is truly a step in the right direction. But Mr. Chamberlain's comment indicates nothing of the kind. The distrust of words is distrust as distrust. They will not fall for any crusade unless his promises (words) can be translated into jobs, security, prospects, a chance to study and learn and an extension of civil liberties."

How are the young people to know whether these promises can be translated into jobs? Must they not follow a mental process, for which the instruments are words and numbers, in order to know whether the promises of jobs and security are also compatible with the other thing that they want, which is freedom? If they distrust all words, how can they tell the difference between a slogan and a statement of fact? Does Mr. Chamberlain not know that Hitler came into power in Germany on the promise of jobs and security addressed to a youth very much like our own youth at this moment—a youth that was completely give over to the historic relativism that Mr. Chamberlain so ably represents among the American intelligentsia, a youth that no longer believed in thought but only in deeds—"jobs, security?" And if youth distrusts words, what does it want with "a chance to study," and with civil liberties—with "free speech?"

The concept that words do not matter, only deeds, that action is more important than thought is the very basis of the "dynamism" that has plunged his world into a horrible war—the war that this youth so longs to avoid. "In the beginning was the Word" means that before men can act wisely they must think; that every action requires reciprocal and corrective thought.

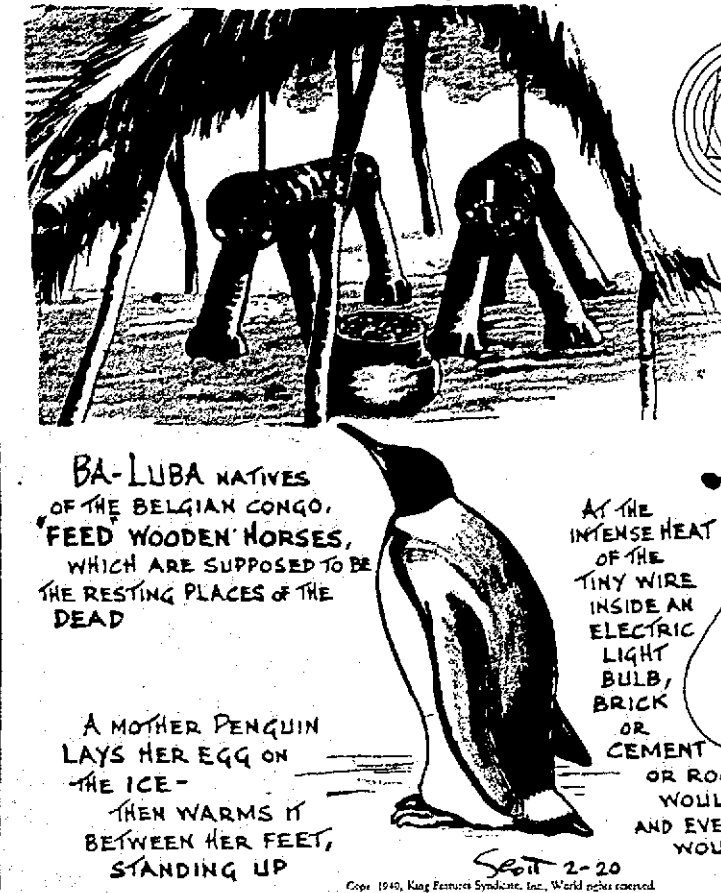

The incapacity of the literate in any civilization to speak precisely, to formulate a most important and significant word, the word formulate—means the chaos of civilization.

Propaganda Fear
The widespread and most pathological fear of "propaganda" in this country simply indicates a lack of confidence in the power to make intellectual discriminations. It comes out in the most fantastic ways. Recently, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Newark, N. J., suggested the investigation of this columnist before the Dies committee on the ground that she was a British agent. The case for my being a British agent rested on a speech which I had made in Newark, in which I earnestly and as honestly as my intellectual capacities allow attempted to differentiate the various issues leading up to and implicit in the present European struggle. The attack upon the speech was that I had not equally and indiscriminately attacked the Western democracies and the Nazi and Communist states. The reprimand ended with the words "If the public believed what she said, we will be in the war."

I do not think that even a 100 per cent belief in what I said would bring us one step nearer to sending an army off this soil, but it might lead us to make certain changes in our policy.

The point is that the question of whether what I said was true or untrue never came up. The question was the result in action. If the result might be war, then what I said was "propaganda" and dangerous. Carried to the logical conclusion, if your physician tells

But even so he has foreclosed or is foreclosing on 165,000 homes. The rate of foreclosure is increasing. How fast it will increase, says John H. Fahey, chairman of the agency, depends largely on economic conditions of the next few years.

It's Good Business
"Since the passage of the Mead amendment authorizing the extension of loans to a period not exceeding 25 years," says Fahey, "our field offices have been reviewing all cases in which foreclosure seemed inevitable in an attempt to relieve to the utmost the burden of these borrowers and prevent every possible foreclosure...."

"It is merely a question of wise social service in going the limit within reason, to prevent foreclosure and to save these homes for these people. We ought to prevent every foreclosure we can, just as a sound business proposition."

Nevertheless, foreclosures go on at the rate of more than a thousand a month. Just now they have hit a low of 800 a month, but Fahey estimates they will amount to 14,000 in 1940.

Losses on foreclosures average $3,000 a home.

Lots of "Slow Paper"

That Seems To Describe Uncle Sam's Mortgage Business.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Uncle Sam, who holds more mortgages on American homes than anyone in history, has filed a report on how he is taking care of them that indicates he will be handling "slow paper" for a long time.

This report covers only the home owners loan corporation, which began in 1933 to absorb 1,017,000 mortgages that were sour. The report does not include such agencies as the Federal Housing Administration, which currently is insuring mortgages on many new houses.

HOLC began distressed home owners at the bottom of the depression. It put $3,000,000,000 into the home-lease business, about $3,000 a home.

As a mortgage holder, Uncle Sam is a sort of, he mingles relief with business. He has to, or he would have four or five times as many dispossessed homes on his hands as he has now. But even so he has foreclosed or is foreclosing on 165,000 homes. The rate of foreclosure is increasing. How fast it will increase, says John H. One Exception VADUZ, Liechtenstein. The little postage stamp principality of Liechtenstein, between Switzerland and Austria, Germany, has lower taxes than almost every other country in Europe, save on one thing—dogs.

Liechtenstein's 7,000 cows and 3,000 pigs are the main source of income to the country's 10,000 inhabitants. Cows don't like dogs and pigs can get along without them, too. Farmers figure the fewer dogs the better. Hence the high taxes on "man's best friend."

So, as it stands now, the government has bought 1,017,000 bad mortgages. Of these, 82,485 borrowers have paid off all their debts. Another 165,000 were foreclosed. Fahey says 788,500 accounts still are on the books. That totals 1,016,985. We are short 13 homes, or mortgages, or borrowers. Don't ask us where they are. Ask Fahey. They probably got lost in an "approximately."

CANTON STORE HIT BY $250,000 BLAZE

Back Long Building Destroyed in Business Area.

By The Associated Press
CANTON, O., Feb. 20.—Total damage was expected to reach a million dollars in a blaze that early today swept a two-story building and spread to the block from the city's business area.

The blaze brought the flames under control at 2 a. m. nearly an hour after the blaze was reported. The building, believed originating in the back long building occupied by the W. Woolworth Co. destroyed that structure in less than an hour. Manager Frank Moore estimated loss in stock and fixtures at $100,000 and real estate value at $100,000.

SWEDISH ACTIVISTS URGE AID FOR FINNS

By The Associated Press
STOCKHOLM, Feb. 20.—Swedish activists—advocates of more help for Finland—presented a resolution to Premier Per Albin Hansson today declaring that the Finnish front must be held and helped by Swedish assistance.

With the Swedish press giving unanimous support to the declaration of King Gustaf yesterday, the activists continued their efforts to encourage as much assistance as possible to the war-torn neighbor.

King Gustaf pointed out that the Swedish could continue to give Finland "the not inconsiderable assistance" which she "now gets from us and greatly needs."

The activists in their resolution today, presented through the so-called "Northern Freedom conference," did not urge direct intervention.

It declared: "Finland's case is ours. The Finnish front must be held and helped by Swedish assistance. Intervention from states outside the north would threaten to make our country a war theater."

"We maintain that freedom and peace are best, through giving our own help so vigorously that any other help is unnecessary."

STAR OF VANDERBILTS MARKS 16TH BIRTHDAY

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Gloria Laura Morgan Vanderbilt is 16 today—nearly the age at which her beautiful mother was married.

But young Gloria, heiress to $1,200,000 and the coming star of her generation of Vanderbilts, has two years to go before her formal entrance into the social whirl in which the elder Gloria, barely 16, met Reginald Vanderbilt, the dashing sportsman.

She was to make her debut in the social whirl when she gets to college when she will be 17½ and become a widow at 20.

Gloria is now in a private school at Providence, R. I., but during her New York holidays has been a popular hunka party girl in the city's night excursions.

Her plans for observing today's birthday anniversary were closely guarded by the school.

EFFINGER ASKS HIGHER SPANISH WAR PENSION

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Vernon E. Effinger of Lima, O., former leader of the Black Legion, is seeking an increase in his pension as a Spanish war veteran. Representative Jones (R-Ohio) disclosed today.

War department records, Jones said, showed that Effinger now receives $20 a month. Effinger, he said, made the request through the attorney while the representative was in Lima recently. Jones said he customarily forwarded pension questions to the war department for consideration.

The attorney did not specify how much of an increase Effinger wanted, Jones said.

Finns Keep Brave Front in Face of Faltering Defense

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Finland's iron-men have continued to do the impossible in holding off the Red God, but the invaders are pressing hard on the defenders' right flank where lies the strategically important city of Viipuri.

True, the Finns report the destruction of a Russian division of 16,000 men northeast of Lake Ladoga. But we heard about that unofficially a couple of weeks ago and the present delayed announcement looks like a brave and timely move to inspire the public and keep the Finnish flag high.

The best we can say at the moment is that the position of the Finns is desperate but not hopeless. The question of whether outside aid still can reach them in time is a matter of life and death.

It's mighty hard to retain a true perspective of the Finnish situation for the reason that most of us are prone to think of these heroic folk with our hearts instead of our heads.

Finland's grand old man, Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim, commander in chief, set the world a sporting example of fortitude and good will in his latest order of the day. In calling upon his weary little army for further sacrifice he says:

"From abroad there already has come aid to considerable extent, and it is coming continually. Soldiers of Finland, we must stand without faltering! The development of the situation gives us every possibility of victory."

No complaint against friends who haven't sent the aid he needs. He's grateful for the little assistance which has arrived—and he thinks Finland can hold out.

One wonders whether the marshal really believes his boys can make the grade unless help comes quickly. He needs a hundred thousand trained soldiers immediately, with more to come, to relieve his tired troops, and thus far he has received a few thousand volunteers. He needs many airplanes with pilots, as well as guns and mountains of munitions.

Immediate Help Needed
The immediate military help which Finland so sorely needs must come from one or more of four sources—Sweden, Norway, Britain and France. All these countries have been sending some aid, but the fact that the two Scandinavian states are trying desperately to maintain their neutrality in the war between Germany and the Anglo-French allies has prevented wholesale assistance.

The only way the allies could get official military aid to Finland would be through Norway and Sweden, short of sending troops up north to Finland's Arctic port of Petsamo. Sweden not only has refused a request from Finland for military aid but has declined to allow passage of allied forces.

Intervention by Sweden or Norway presumably would set Germany in action against them, and undoubtedly both of them have been warned to this effect by Herr Hitler. They are in a tough spot.

However, the bolshevik invasion of Finland has formed a maelstrom which swirls the faster as the Finns are harder pressed. Both Sweden and Norway are spinning around the edge, and it would take little more to draw them in.

Then Field Marshal Mannerheim would get his aid. That would, of course, bring Russia into the war on Germany's side. But are growing indications that the Allies wouldn't be averse to this development, which would open up a new front in northern Europe against Hitler.

FOUR MEN ESCAPE DEATH AS CAR FALLS INTO LAKE

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Feb. 20.—An attempt to save 20 fishing shacks nearly cost four men their lives in Lake Erie.

The four were driving over foot-thick ice near Rattlesnake Island when their truck plunged through a crack into 30 feet of water. Clifford Kibby, the driver, Lee Samsin, Robert Smith and Ed Hubby struggled free as the vehicle settled.

The four were attempting to find the shanties, carried away by an ice breakup.

CLEANED BY NAZIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Red-haired Homer Williams may get a chance in far-off Alaska to forget his unrequited love for Maxine Edwards of Nevada.

The 24-year-old poet-warrior changed with a rifle wildly at the Miami university co-ed on the campus at Oxford several weeks ago, may plead guilty at his arraignment tomorrow in hope of being placed on probation.

Prosecutor Paul A. Baden reported.

Thus, the prosecutor said, he would be free to take a job found for him in Alaska by a group of friends.

Madge Evans' Score with Verities by Telling Him That Rehearsal Must Be Held in Morning.

THE DEMANDS of conventionality and the rigid tenets of good breeding save many unpleasant scenes. I never have had this brought more closely to my attention than in the seconds following Philip Verities' declaration about the first rehearsal of the cast upon the morrow.

"I was sure that he was mocking Mary," and the impulse to shriek out my anger and my fear for my niece was so strong upon me that for the fraction of a second I was afraid I was going to yield to it. "I am sorry to have to change that hour," I told him hypocritically, "but my father has asked me to keep the afternoons free from visitors, while the present crisis lasts, at least. So I must set the date of the rehearsal in the morning, so that we will be through before luncheon. You can estimate the duration of it better than I, so please choose your own time of starting."

"That will be a most inconvenient time," he commented while I inwardly gloated. "There is no possibility of your father's changing his mind if he were properly approached?"

No Change in Plans "I am afraid not," I told him. "I know I would not venture to approach him on the subject. But, of course, he would see you and listen to you if you wished to ask him to change the time of your

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed. Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it. It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it. Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time. And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick relief. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get a full night's sleep. Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaricol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

HOSPITAL TESTS REVEAL GREAT DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

At last—here's an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation with its headaches, mental dullness, fatigue and yellow skin.

Tests in a world-famous hospital have proved a "little daily dose" of Kruschen (world-famous formula, now at last obtainable in pleasant-tasting "bubbling" form) actually produces nature's own gentle, pleasant, "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel.

Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Also acts as a mild Anacid and Kidney Stimulant. Give you MORE for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for WEEKS. Over 245,000,000 jars have been sold throughout the world. KRUSCHEN MUST be good—it MUST do the work! Made in U. S. A.

Why Let Yourself
Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headache days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran cereal. This crumbly toasted breakfast cereal is the source of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasant means you ever knew.

Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.
